Appendix 1: Selective Family Tree

1. Andrew MacCunn - a composer and theatrical conductor, settled in Australia
2. John MacCunn - Professor of Philosophy at Liverpool University, author of The Making of Character
4. Francis John MacCunn was educated at Rugby School and gained a First Class Degree in Modern History at Queen's College Oxford. Lecturer in Modern History at Glasgow for three years, author of The Contemporary English View of Napoleon. He died at the Battle of Loos October 1915
Appendix 2: ICONOGRAPHY

The following list includes portraits and photographs of the composer, listed chronologically:

Portrait photograph of MacCunn aged about 4 dressed in a sailor suit with a cap inscribed with the name “Monarch” on it. Full length, from the front, subject seated. Archives of the Burns Society, Greenock.

Portrait by John Pettie (1886), half-length, full-face, ‘done in four hours.’ 27” x 24”
Private Collection

Photograph of MacCunn (aged about 20) in a deerstalker hat, standing with his arms crossed, smoking a pipe, a stone wall in the background. Three quarter length, from the front.
From an unidentified newspaper accompanying a listing for a performance of Land of the Mountain and the Flood. Photocopy sent to the author by Sir Frederick O’Brien.

Cartoon “Pettie’s dream of Hamish MacCunn conducting a monster orchestra” by John Pettie (1888)
Private collection. Reproduced in the sleeve notes for the Hyperion recording CDA66815

Portrait by John Pettie (1892), half-length, full-face, ‘an hour’s sketch’ written on the back. This was the sketch that was copied by J.B.Blackwell: Blackwell’s version is in the Scottish National Portrait Gallery.
18” x 10”
Private Collection

John Pettie used MacCunn as a subject for several of his paintings:

Challenged (1885) MacCunn is the figure on the bed

Two Strings to her Bow (1887) This picture shows a smug young lady being escorted down an English country lane by two gentlemen, a dandyish MacCunn on her right hand and a disgruntled looking fellow with fair hair on her left - modelled by Alexander Watt, son of the literary agent A.P.Watt. It seems the lady in the middle is Margaret Thallon (1864 - 1948), a Pettie family governess. For a long time it was thought to be Alison Pettie. In Glasgow Corporation Art Gallery.

A Storm in a Teacup (also known as The Tiff) (1887). Companion piece to the previous entry: Dandy MacCunn’s backview is retreating up the lane while the lady faces forward with a vexed expression on her face.

A CATALOGUE

OF WORKS BY

HAMISH MACCUNN

Introduction.

C. Choral Works
D. Stage Works
E. Songs
F. Piano and Chamber Works
G. Writings and Correspondence (see Bibliography)
Introduction

This is the first comprehensive catalogue of MacCunn’s oeuvre to be assembled. The works are listed chronologically within genres. MacCunn took a cavalier attitude to adding opus numbers to his compositions, and seems to have entirely lost interest in the process by 1898. He did however sign and date many pieces. Where the manuscript is no longer extant and the copyright date is not displayed, I have estimated the composition date by referring to clues such as the publication number or the engraver’s plate number. In addition, MacCunn employed different publishers at specific points in his career — another hint. Durations for major works are included. Most of the manuscript sources are housed in Glasgow University Library’s MacCunn Collection.

A. JUVENILIA (pre-RCM)

1. Cavatina Pastorale for ‘cello and piano

Date of Composition: 1881

Source: Autograph: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 15

Unpublished

Other comments: Probably intended for the composer and his father to play together. The original title looks as if it was Sonatina for violin and piano (the word ‘sonatina’ has been ruled over and the string instrument has had ‘cello’ added to the original ‘violin’ forming a ‘violincello’!).

2. ‘I saw thee weep’ Song

Date of Composition: 27 February 1881

Source: Autograph, signed: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 24

Unpublished

Other comments: Poem by Byron. Two copies of the autograph at this location

3. Six Minuets for the piano

Date of Composition: c.1882

Source: Autograph: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 24

Unpublished

Other comments: Unfinished. [3 in A major, 3 in E major. Awkward piano writing, basic harmony]
4. Overture in C minor for piano

Date of Composition: January 1882

Source: Autograph, signed: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 24

Unpublished

Other comments: [Overworking of same idea]

5. Serenade (partsong): ‘If thou art sleeping maiden’ for TrATB

Date of Composition: 27 February 1882, written out again February 1883

Source: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 20
       GB-Gu MS MacCunn 24

Unpublished

Other comments: Poem by Longfellow from The Spanish Student Act III Sc 4. [ABA + Coda, homophonic in B flat major]

6. The Moss Rose [setting 1] for SATB and piano

Partsong

Date of Composition: - 30 April 1882

Source: Autograph, signed: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 24

Unpublished

Other comments: First of two settings of this text from the German of Krummacher. [E major, rigid phrase structure, piano doubles voices]. See also entry C1 on p316 below.

7. Song: ‘For the Wandering Jew’ for bass and piano

Date of Composition: 1883

Source: Autograph, signed J. MacCunn Jr. 1883 Thornhill
8. Song: 'The Cottager and Her Infant'
Date of Composition: c. 1883
Source: Autograph GB-Gu MS MacCunn 21
Unpublished
Other comments: Poem by Wordsworth

9. Tema in C major with variations for piano [unfinished]
Date of Composition: 23 January 1883
Source: Autograph, signed [James MacCunn, Jr.]: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 15
Unpublished
Other comments: A theme and seven variations. The score indicates a cadenza that has not been written out.

10. Song: 'To Mary in Heaven' Song
Date of Composition: 8 February 1883, Thornhill, Greenock
Source: Autograph, signed GB-Gu MS MacCunn 21
Unpublished
Other comments: Poem by Burns, also known as 'Thou Lingering Star'

11. Serenade (song): 'Stars of the Summer Night'
Date of Composition: 1 March 1883
12. Partsong: ‘Sleep dwell upon thine eyes’ for TrATB

Date of Composition: ‘Composed by James MacCunn Jr., Thornhill, Greenock, 14th March [18]83’

Source: Autograph, signed: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 20

Unpublished

Other comments:
Text by Shakespeare Romeo and Juliet Act II Scene 2. Presented in the same format as no. 5 above. Both pieces are to be sung unaccompanied – pace the Glasgow University Library catalogue: on the frontispiece MacCunn writes ‘With a compressed score for the piano to be used only at practice’. [Again ABA¹, but the middle section includes a monophonic moment and some rudimentary imitation. The short text is repeated many times.]

13. Fugue for organ

Date of Composition: 31 March 1883

Source: Autograph GB-Gu MS MacCunn 15

Unpublished

Other comments: Most likely a composition exercise for Mr. Poulter in Greenock. In A major on the following theme:
14. Motet: Psalm C for chorus, quartett (sic) and tenor solo, with accompaniment for the organ.

Date of Composition: - 6 April 1883

Source: Autograph, signed GB-Gu MS MacCunn 20

Unpublished

Other comments: Verses 1, 2, 4 & 5 of the Jubilate are set (= verses 1, 2 and 4 in the Book of Common Prayer version). Scrawled on the front cover in the composer’s hand ‘A very execrable [?] bit of trash.’

[After an initial solo there is a call and response pattern between the tenor and the choir (E flat major). ‘For the Lord is good..’ is sung by the quartet (A flat major, 3/4). Fast and vigorous imitative section ‘And his truth endureth for ever’(C minor). His counterpoint lessons and exercises are evidently bearing some fruit here. Varied reprise of opening then the call and response pattern is extended to the material previously sung by the quartet, now in common time. Climactic coda (full organ + 32ft pedal octaves!)]

15. Fantasia Overture in E minor for orchestra [sketches, unfinished]

Date of Composition: - 3 September 1883 Brodick, Arran.

Source: Autograph GB-Gu MS MacCunn 22

Unpublished

Other comments: One of the last works written (on holiday) before going to the RCM. [More adventurous harmony (half diminished 7ths etc.) and an interest in counterpoint shown in the middle section. Very sketchy. The da Capo is not written out. Arresting heroic opening brass figure also heard at the close (marked Adagissimo). Fine dell’overture written after last bar. Some of the material in this piece may have been used in the lost Cior Mhor.]

Scoring: 2.2.2.2. 2.2.0.0 timpani, strings

16. The Changing Year for voices and piano [incomplete]

Cantata

Date of Composition: undated. 1883-4?
Source: Autograph: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 20

Unpublished

Other comments: One sheet of sketches outlining different motifs for the four seasons. 'Winter' is complete, also seven pages of 'Spring' and then the music runs out. The motifs were planned however, so presumably the music did exist.
B. ORCHESTRAL WORKS

1. Overture: Cior Mhor

Date of Composition: 1885

Manuscript lost

First performance: 27 October, 1885 Crystal Palace

Performers: Crystal Palace Orchestra conducted by August Manns

Other comments: Further performances in Glasgow and Greenock January 1887.

2. Overture to 'The Land of the Mountain and the Flood'

Date of Composition: - 8 November 1886

Source: Sketch: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 39 signed [Hamish MacCunn] and dated at the end [25 October [18]86]

Autograph: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 39, signed, dated.

Published by Novello

Publication Date: 188?

First performance: 5 November 1887, Crystal Palace

Performers: Crystal Palace Orchestra conducted by August Manns

Duration: 9'

Other comments:
Scoring: 2.2.2.2. 2.2.3.1 timpani, cymbals, strings.
On the front of the autograph of the full score is written in MacCunn's hand
'The finished MS fair copy of this work has been lost by the carelessness of "the Strand Magazine" people, to whom it was lent by Mr. A.P. Watt, for autographic reproduction.'
The manner in which the title is expressed suggests that the overture may have been conceived in relation to a larger work. The obvious link would be with the cantata The Lay of the Last Minstrel, whose final chorus ends with just these words. But there is no evidence to make one think that such a link was planned, and commentators who propose this (most recently in the programme notes for a performance of both works 23 May 2004, Melrose Parish Church) are misguided.

Date of Composition: ‘Finished 18 June 1887, London’

Source: Autograph: GB-En MS3365

Published by Augener

Publication Date: 1890

First performance: 21 February 1888, St. James’ Hall (London Symphony Concerts)

Performers: London Symphony Orchestra conducted by the composer

Duration: 12'

Other comments:
Scoring: 2.2.2.2. 2.2.3.0 timpani, cymbals, bass drum, strings

On the frontispiece of the autograph is written ‘Author’s original copy given to me Sept. 21 1896’ [signed Lorne].

The poem is written out in MacCunn’s hand, not all of it, but selected verses (1,2,9,11,12,15,16,17,18,19,22,23,24,25). Then ‘To the most noble The Marquise of Lorne K.T.. This MS from Hamish MacCunn Sept. 1896’.

Two newspaper cuttings are interleaved with the MS score, one relating to the first performance and another reporting on a playing at Manns’ benefit concert at the Crystal Palace on 21 April 1888.

An arrangement for piano duet was made by Marmaduke Barton and published by Augener (no. 8571 in their catalogue).

An arrangement for string orchestra was made by Adam Carse and published by Augener in c.1939.
4. Orchestral Ballad: The Dowie Dens o’ Yarrow Op. 6

Date of Composition: 1888 (by 20 June that year)

Autograph lost

Published by Augener

Publication Date: [n.d. but probably 1891]

First performance: Privately on 20 June 1888 at ‘The Lothians,’ Sir John Pettie’s studio in Fitzjohns Road, St. John’s Wood. Publicly on 13 October 1888 at the Crystal Palace

Performers: Crystal Palace Orchestra conducted by August Manns

Duration: 10'

Other comments:
Scoring: 2.2.2.2 + contra 3.2.3.1 timpani, side drum, cymbals, bass drum, strings

An arrangement for piano duet was made by Marmaduke Barton and published by Augener [n.d.]

Scoring: 2.2.2.2 2 horns, Strings (iii) adds 2 trumpets and timpani)

Arrangement for violin and piano by the author: Autograph, signed, 1896 London GB-Gu MS MacCunn 26. Published by Augener 1897

Arrangement for piano duet by the author: Autograph, signed, 1896 London GB-Gu MS MacCunn 26. Published by Augener 1897

Arrangement for piano solo by the author. Autograph, signed, 1896 London GB-Gu MS MacCunn 26. Published by Augener 1905

Arrangement for organ by Norman Strafford published by Augener 1922

Arrangement for string orchestra by Adam Carse published by Augener 1930

MacCunn conducted this work at a Philharmonic Concert at the Queen’s Hall on 20 May 1897
6. Ballet for Royce: Graceful Dance and Valse

Date of Composition: May 1903

Source: Autograph, GB-Gu MS MacCunn 13

Unpublished

Other comments:
Scoring: Graceful Dance 1.1.2.1. 2 horns, triangle and tambourine, strings.

Valse 1 + picc.1.2.1 2.2.2.0 bass drum, cymbals, side drum, tambourine, triangle, strings

 Likely to be a number from The Earl and the Girl or Little Hans Anderson. Edward Royce Jr. (1870-1964) was a dancer, choreographer and director. He had recently danced the duet in the second act of A Princess of Kensington – conducted by MacCunn – with Winifred Hart-Dyke.

7. ‘L’Entente Cordiale’ dance from The Earl and the Girl

Date of Composition: 1904

Lost

Unpublished

Comments: ‘L’Entente Cordiale’ is mentioned in MacCunn’s catalogue of his works. He wrote it for Winifred Hart-Dyke to dance.

8. ‘Mazurka’

Date of Composition: 1905

Lost

Unpublished

Other comments: This mazurka is mentioned in MacCunn’s catalogue of his works. It is likely to be the ‘Dance, tempo alla mazurka, un poco animato’ to be found after the first chorus in Act II of The Talk of the Town (VS pp106-110). It was again composed with Miss Hart-Dyke in mind. Piano version at F9 on p367 below)
9. Suite of Four Dances [for orchestra]
   i) Allegro moderato
   ii) Tempo di valse
   iii) Hornpipe
   iv) Alla marcia con brio

Date of Composition: i) 1904 ii) 1900 iii) August 1909 iv) 1904. This composite work was assembled in 1914 or later, perhaps even during his last illness, to tie up loose musical ends. His own catalogue of 28 December 1913 (GB-Gu MS Farmer 265a) does not mention this Suite, so it’s likely to have been put together after that date.

Source: Autograph, (iv signed): GB-Gu MS MacCunn 16

Unpublished

First performance i) and iv) 1930/1 on the B.B.C. ii) 13 February 1900 at Her Majesty’s Theatre, London

Other comments:
Scoring: i) 1 + piccolo.1.2.1 2.2.2.0 timpani, bass drum, cymbals, strings
   ii) 2.2.2.2 2.2.3.0 timpani, bass drum, cymbals, side drum, strings
   iv) 2.1.2.1 2.2.2.0 timpani, bass drum, cymbals, strings
i) and iv) are numbers taken from the unfinished comic opera Prue. In this country comedy, a group of travelling players visit the village of Arthlington. Ralph Goode, the leader of the players announces 'a comedy of fantasy, with songs and dances gay'. The crossed out markings on i) - Prue–Duet–Dance Columbine and Harlequin–Pantomine and the similarity of manuscript paper, title layout and the date (September 1904) on iv) would seem to confirm their origins. It is possible that these two dances correspond to 'Colombine' and 'Harlequin' in MacCunn's own catalogue of his works. Although the original vocal score is lost, the light music composer Robert Chignell prepared a new fully orchestrated version between September 1928 and September 1930 for projected broadcast by the B.B.C. It is this arrangement that is kept in Glasgow: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 30.
ii) is 'The Dance of Medway' from The Masque of War and Peace, a waltz for full orchestra in G.
iii) is a piano Hornpipe dedicated to Marmaduke Barton, but no orchestral version is extant (= the 'Hornpipe' listed in MacCunn's catalogue.)

See also F7 on p367 below.

Other comments: Text prepared by James MacCunn from the epic poem by James Hogg
Scoring: 2.2.2.2 + contra 4.3.3.1. timpani, bass drum, cymbals, strings

Subsequently given at a Crystal Palace Saturday Concert on 5 March 1892.

On the front of the autograph score is written ‘To Mrs. Pettie with kindest regards from HM 23/1/1892’ Illustrating the frontispiece is a circular picture of approaching Norse warships, done with an excellent sense of perspective and with the names of the Norse gods written round the edge.

A note beneath ‘From burnt wood engraving by James MacCunn’ and a verse:

‘Thy guiding spirit bade me come,
And steered thro’ storms my dragon ships
From fjords far across the foam
To hear the music of thy lips!’

[‘The Death of Parcy Reed’ (1896) see C10 below]

8. The Wreck of the Hesperus

[Ballad for chorus and orchestra]

Date of Composition: June 1905

Published by Novello and Co.

Publication Date: 1905

Performers: Coliseum choir and orchestra conducted by the composer.

Duration: 15'

Other comments:
Poem by Longfellow

Scoring: 2.2.2.2. 2.2.3.0. timpani, bass drum and cymbals, strings

Dedicated ‘To my friend Walter Slaughter’. On the fly-sheet is written a short musical quotation:
"A ship sailed over the sea!"

which is a reference to Slaughter's show Little Hans Anderson which MacCunn conducted. This is the start of song no.11 'The Mermaid' sung by the Princess (in G major) from the second act of the show.

Performed twice daily at 3 and 9pm each day for four months, before being toured through the provinces, The Wreck of the Hesperus was one item on a variety programme of a dozen or so items.

9. Livingstone the Pilgrim

Cantata for narrator, soprano and baritone solos, chorus and organ

Date of Composition: 1912

Source: Autograph, signed: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 11 [wanting no. 5]

Score in Glasgow University Library has ‘Papa from Hamish 5/1/13’ written in the composer’s hand on the front.
10. Four Scottish Traditional Border Ballads for chorus and orchestra

i) ‘Kinmont Willie’
ii) ‘The Jolly Goshawk’
iii) ‘Lamkin’
iv) ‘The Death of Parcy Reed’ (for male chorus and orchestra)

Date of Composition: - June 1913, but ‘Parcy Reed’, would seem to date from 1896. The autograph vocal score in Glasgow University Library bears an opus number 31, placing it between the Album of Seven Songs Opus 30 (1895)/Highland Memories (also Opus 30) and Diarmid Opus 34 (1897). The composition date at the end has been obliterated. Clues from the type of ms. paper used would seem to back up this theory.

First performance originally scheduled for 19 October. Repeat performances on 27 October and 30 October (matinée).

The ballet music was extracted, modified to exclude the chorus parts, and first performed at a Philharmonic Society Concert on 10 March 1898 conducted by the composer.

3. Breast of Light Op. 36

[Unfinished grand opera]

Date of Composition: after 1900

Source: Autograph vocal score with early sketches: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 17
Unpublished

Other comments: Although it bears the opus number 36, the text is written by The Duke of Argyll as opposed to the Marquis of Lorne: Lorne only inherited the title on his father’s death in 1900. Opus 36 is the last number attached to any of MacCunn’s pieces.

4. The Masque of War & Peace

Masque

Date of Composition: 1900

A Light Opera in Three Acts [unfinished]

Date of Composition: 1904

Source: Arrangement for orchestra of the vocal score by Robert Chignell (September 1928-September 1930): GB-Gu MS MacCunn 30
Set of parts for the same arrangement: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 31

First performance: Possibly in 1930 on the BBC

Other comments:
Text by Charles H. Taylor: a rural comedy set in the time of the Napoleonic Wars.

Also in Glasgow University Library a ‘Nocturne’ from Prue Act II Scene 2 for piano that does not appear in Chignell’s arrangement: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 13

7. Four numbers for The Talk of the Town
   ‘Two Eyes’
   ‘The home-made hat’
   ‘The Race’
   ‘Bombay on the Nile’
   (Also a section of the opening chorus of Act II from page 104 to page 111 in the Vocal Score)

Published by Chappell, according to MacCunn's own list of works, but impossible to find a trace of it in that firm's archive.

Publication Date: 1905

First performance: 5 August 1905, Prince of Wales Theatre, Birmingham

Other comments:
Text by Captain Basil Hood concerning a lawyer's clerk who is prevailed upon to play the part of a married man in order to protect 'Mrs. Robinson' who is, in fact, a single and very rich young lady desirous of warding off unwanted suitors.

9. The Pageant of Darkness and Light

Pageant

Date of Composition: 1908

Source: Autograph vocal score used by the printer: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 12

Published by Weekes and Co.

Publication Date: 1908

First performance: 4 June 1908, Agricultural Hall, London

Duration: 90'

Other comments:
Text by John Oxenham. Designed and produced by Hugh Moss. Commissioned by the London Missionary Society and produced at the great 'Orient in London' Exhibition for six weeks, between 4 June and 11 July 1908. Later much performed in America where upward of 670,000 people saw it in Boston, Chicago and other smaller cities.

The 'Livingstone' episode was extracted and published separately by the London Missionary Society.
10. Seven numbers for A Waltz Dream
   ‘You are free’
   ‘In a Palace Garden’
   ‘Princess Hélène’
   ‘Haven’t you heard?’ [Opening Chorus Act III]
   ‘When a man has sworn his troth’ [not used]
   ‘A Reigning Prince’
   Scene, solo and ensemble; ‘Her Highness is at Hand’

Date of Composition: 1908 [a stamp on the bottom of the MS sheets reads ‘Copyright MCMVIII by Metzler & Co. Ltd. and [Handwritten] Chappell & Co. Ltd. [Printed]]

Source: Autograph: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 14

Unpublished save for those items listed below which are published by Metzler and Co.

Publication Date: ‘You are free’ 1909, ‘In a Palace Garden’ 1908, ‘Princess Hélène’ 1908, ‘When a man has sworn his troth’ 1908.

First performance: 1908. The run at the Hicks Theatre started on 7 March 1908, and the reviews immediately picked up on the last act’s weaknesses. MacCunn was enlisted to remodel this act. It is impossible to know when his alterations were incorporated. They certainly would have been used on the regional tour he conducted in 1909.

Other comments:
Lyrics translated and adapted from the German by Adrian Ross. Main composer – Oscar Straus.

11. Two choruses for Autumn Manoeuvres

Publication Date: 1890?

Other comments: Mentioned in Edmonstoune Duncan "Hamish MacCunn: 1868-1916" Musical Opinion no. 468 September 1916,761, and in MacCunn's own catalogue. MacCunn's enthusiasm for Moore's poems seems to have exhausted itself by 1890. Only one setting 'At the mid-hour of the night' comes from after this date. If this was published by Joseph Williams - as MacCunn's own catalogue suggests - it is likely to have come after the Album of Ten Songs (1889) with the other singly published works 'I've found my mountain lyre again' and 'The Emigrant's Song'.

Publication Date: 1892

Other comments:
The poems are taken from a set entitled 'Songs of Love' which appeared in Lady Lindsay's collection of Lyrics and other Poems (London, Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner & Co. 1890). The 'Songs...' are divided into 'Her songs' and 'His songs'. Rather than engineer some sort of dialogue between the sexes, MacCunn arranges them like this: Hers - nos. 1,2 and 6, His- nos. 3,4 and 5.

'A set of six songs by Mr. MacCunn contains some specimens of the composer's better class of work; 'Wishes' is a graceful little song; 'Doubting' is sufficiently expressive, though not particularly well written for voice; and 'Hesper' has plenty of opportunities for effect.' The Times, 3 March 1893, 3.

Publication Date: 1892

Other comments: ‘Among a large number of songs, mostly of the conventional ‘ballad’ type, sent by Messrs Sheard and Co., the following may be recommended: - ‘Bethesda’, by Hamish MacCunn, is a setting of some decidedly original words, treated with considerable skill; the structure of the melody has a curious affinity with certain examples of traditional English Music’

Publication Date: October 1896

Other comments: It was published in Melody, a Musical Magazine 1 October 1896, 326-7, for whom it was 'especially composed'.
Dedicated 'to my friend A.S.W.'
Essentially a strophic song with an interesting play of 4/4 and 2/4 time signatures in verses 1 and 2 that is adapted to a consistent 4/4 in the slower third verse.

68. 'A Cosie Song'

Date of Composition: July 1896

Author: Lady Caroline Blanche Lindsay

Published by Metzler

Publication Date: December 1896
Other comments: It was published in Melody, a Musical Magazine (Christmas Double issue) 1 December 1896, 429-31, for whom it was 'expressly composed'. Dedicated 'to Master Adrian Waterlow'
A lullaby in 6/8 ('Rock thee to sleep') with a faster middle section ('Hark! Down the glen come the merry, merry men').
On MacCunn's autograph the song is labelled Opus 36 no. 2, although it is not clear what the other songs with this opus number are.

77. 'What does the little birdie sing?' (Cradle Song)

Date of Composition: - 1899

Author: Alfred Lord Tennyson

Published by Nassau Press, London

Publication Date: 1899

First performance: Presumably at the Charing Cross Hospital Bazaar, but after that Madame Marchesi sang this song at the St. James’ Hall (Curtius Concert Club) on 7 November 1900.

Other comments: The Souvenir... is a collection of art, writings and music. Songs and chamber music by Frederick Bridge, Cowen, Elgar, German, Mackenzie, Parry, Stanford and Sullivan are also featured. The whole publication has been drawn together by Beerbohm Tree, who thanks his contributors in an afterword.

78. 'On the high road (Soldier Song)'

Date of Composition: - 1904

Author: Basil Hood

Source: Printed copy: GB-Lbm H.3628.(15.).H

Published by Chappell

Publication Date: 1904

Other comments: ‘...how completely his [MacCunn’s] old spirit has been tamed.’ Times 7 September 1904, 12.
Six verses with a chorus singing at the end of each.

79. 'There’s a wee, wee glen in the Hielans’

Date of Composition: 4 March 1914

Author: Charles Murray
Source: Autograph, signed: GB-Gu MS Farmer 265

Unpublished

Other comments: At head of title: 'To Miss Janey C. Drysdale. (Souvenir, Dunedin Magazine, March 1914, wherein are these pathetic words.)'

80. 'With Thee'

Date of Composition: - 1914

Author: Fergus MacCunn

Published by Weekes & Co.

Publication Date: 1914

Other comments: It seems strangely apposite that the last song MacCunn wrote was a setting of his son's words.
F. PIANO AND CHAMBER WORKS

1. Trio in E minor for piano, violin and cello

Date of Composition: 1884?

Source: lost

Unpublished

Other comments: Student exercise mentioned in Charles O’Brien’s note regarding provenance and ownership of various scores by MacCunn 24 April 1949 – 8 October 1950. GB-Gu MS MacCunn C1. In this note O’Brien writes ‘The two trios (E minor and D Minor) have been extracted by me today (8th October 1950). These trios were MacCunn’s student work at the R.C.M. and Mrs MacCunn asked me to look through them and, if I thought they were too immature and therefore likely to detract from his reputation as a composer, to destroy them. I still have them and, if I find that the works have real merit, they will be sent to the Hunter Collection in Glasgow University.’ They are not in Glasgow University Library, so we may assume that O’Brien considered them unworthy. It would have been fascinating to see them.

2. Trio in D minor for piano, violin and cello

Date of Composition: 1884?

6. Six Scottish Dances for piano Op. 28

Date of Composition: 1896

Source: Autograph, signed: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 2

Published by Cramer

Publication Date: 1896

Other comments: ‘Dedicated to the most noble The Duke of Argyll K.T.’ [i.e the old Duke, father of the Marquis of Lorne]

Orchestration made by Guy Warrack and published by Cramer in 1941.

Scoring 2.2.2.2, 4.2.3.0 timpani and 2 percussion harp strings.
7. 'Dance (Tempo di valse)' from Suite for piano

Date of Composition: 1900

Source: Autograph: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 13

Unpublished

Other comments: Arrangement of ‘Dance no. 2’ from the composite Suite of Four Dances for orchestra (see entry B9 on p315 above). Originally ‘The Dance of Medway’ from The Masque of War and Peace.

8. 'Nocturne' from Prue Act II scene 2 for piano (Act II no.12)

Date of Composition: 1904

Source: Autograph: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 13

Unpublished

Other comments: A rather fine, harmonically rich, ternary form piece that works well as it stands as piano solo: however, this is evidently the piano score before orchestration, judging from the various instrumental indications (‘oboe, violin solo, tutti etc.’) written on it. See D6 above

9. 'Dance (Tempo alla Mazurka) Miss Hart-Dyke' for piano

Date of Composition: 1905

Source: Autograph: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 13

Unpublished, but there is a version in the vocal score of The Talk of the Town pp106-110 published by Hopwood and Crew Ltd.

Publication Date: (1905)

Other comments: Presumably the piano score (before orchestration) of this inserted dance for the show The Talk of the Town. See B8 on p314 above.
10. ‘Dance (Allegretto Grazioso)’ for piano

Date of Composition: September 1909

Source: Autograph, signed: GB-Gu MS MacCunn 13

Unpublished

Other comments: On the front of this 4-page MS there appears No.5 as if MacCunn was hoping to make this the fifth movement of the Suite having orchestrated it.

11. Two Dances for piano

‘Valse’ ‘Hornpipe’

Date of Composition: before 1912

Source: Printed copy: GB-Gbm g.606.o.(21.)

Published by Augener

Publication Date: 1912

Other comments: Both compositions appeared in the series Graded British Piano Pieces - the ‘Valse’ at Grade III (Moderately Easy) and the ‘Hornpipe’ at Grade IV (Moderately Difficult) – and both are dedicated ‘to my friend Marmaduke Barton’. Although the ‘Hornpipe’ is in MacCunn’s fairly anonymous light music mode, the ‘Valse’ is a much more personal piece with distinct shades of Debussy’s recent La plus que lente (1910).

12. The Tartan Plaid, Strathspey Medley for violoncello and piano

Date of Composition: May 1914

Other comments: 'In the Glen' appeared in the series Graded British Piano Music Grade II (Easy)
A pencil drawing of Scots Pines with a fine sense of perspective graces the complete edition. Above 'In the Ingleneuk' is a tag from Keats:
'Sit thee by the ingle, when
The sear faggot blazes bright,
Spirit of a winter's night.'
