Appendix 3: Compositional form

The stelae have been categorised according to the location of the dedicator in relation to the deity. There are three categories:

A. Direct: the dedicator stands or kneels on the same register as the deity, i.e. has direct access to the deity in the representation;

B. Mediated: an intermediary of a higher rank than the dedicator offers to the deity on behalf of the dedicator, who is also represented;

C. Indirect: the deity alone is represented in the upper register. The dedicator is represented (pictorially or by name only) in the lower register, either alone or with colleagues or family.

The subtypes within the categories represent different ways of organising the content in the registers.

Examples of the compositional forms

A: Direct

Definition: dedicator stands or kneels on the same register as the deity.

A

One scene, where the dedicator stands adoring the deity, with identifying labels in the top section and/or a line of text below, usually the formula, 'Made by...' (ir.n...).

*Stelae DB262 and DB263, dedicated by the Foremen, Anhurkhawy (i), and Neferhotep (ii), both in post in the latter stages of the reign of Ramesses II and after, have traditionally been provenanced to a 'Chapel of Hatshepsut' at Karnak (Porter and Moss 1972 II: 455, 456). James has convincingly argued (1976: 7-10; see also Bierbrier 1982b: 27) that this 'chapel' never existed, but that the finds recorded as coming from here were in fact gathered and buried by the antiquities dealer Mohamed Mouhassib from whom Wallis Budge purchased them. These are the only two stelae in the Deir el Medina dataset to have a Karnak provenance, which supports James' argument.
